

September 26, 2019

Anacortes Marina Construction Update

Current F dock and breakwater replacement projects:

Week Beginning September 30th

All vessels will have departed F dock and Culbertson Marine will have created a hole in the east breakwater to allow entrance of the new dock. Marine Floats contractor will disassemble the dock for removal. A crane barge will be located between F dock and the fuel dock. Access to the fuel dock and haul out may be restricted. Old docks will be removed from the Marina. If using your vessel during this period be aware of construction movements at the entrance.

Week of October 7th

Old docks will have been removed. The new Marine Floats main dock will be arriving at the Marina and will enter through the temporary hole located in the breakwater. Once in the Marina, the dock will be pinned in place and the new gangway attached to allow worker access. Piles will then be driven to anchor the dock and fingers.

Once the new F dock has entered the Marina, Culbertson Marine will return to replace the angled wall at the entrance and fill the hole in the breakwater. This work will create a restriction at the entrance and may require larger boats, wanting to enter the Marina, to temporarily use the Marina's north exit for entry.

This restriction at the entrance is expected to only last a few days so you should plan your movements accordingly. Call the Marina office for a daily update on restrictions.

Weeks of October 14th and 21st

Culbertson Marine will continue work on replacement of the east breakwater wall. Marine Floats crew will assemble F dock and complete installation of piles securing the docks. Power, water and fire protection connections will be completed. Marina crew will be installing dock wheels, life rings and dock boxes. Quantum Construction will be working at the head of A and B docks creating concrete abutments for future gangway placement. This work will not affect access to A or B docks.

Week beginning October 28th

Crews should be wrapping up dock assembly and we will then be looking to bring boats back into the Marina. Marina staff will continue installing refurbished dock boxes. New dock gates on order will be installed when available.

Please keep in mind this schedule is weather dependent. If you will be using your vessel during this period contact the Marina office for the most current information or check our website at anacortesmarina.com >News>Notices. Thank You.